Bridal parties for the month have been arranged.

ISS GRACE GALE

Society is occupied with nothing else. The unengaged girl, the girl who is not to be a June bride, the girl who is not to be even an autumn bride, has vanished. don't believe there is one of her in town. Not twenty-four hours passes without a new announcement, and as for wedding lingerie-I have inspected Valenciennes and tucks and blue silk garters with blue satin bow. and kimonas, and the whole lovely lot of finery that fills every woman's heart with glee, whether she is a prospective bride or not, until my adjective stock is run dry and my eyes are surfeited with daintiness and embroidery.

Never has St. Louis been so positively given over to marriages as this month's calendar shows. I took a look in the files of The Republic for ten Junes past, and not one of them can show a list of brids-as long or half as Important as that which this rosy month has to offer. At least let this rosy month has to offer. At least let us be thankful that the ceremonies don't all come on the same days, and that those which do conflict are at different hours. The Wednesday weddings are nicely arranged. Katherine Jones will be married at half after 5, and if we make quick time way the last sate to the Goldard Bires cere. we can just get to the Goddard-Biggs cere-mony at 6, with a rest until Grace Gale's

The Gale-Welsh party gathered itself together on Friday, when the bridegroom, Mr. George Winston Welsh, Jr., lately of Kentneky, but more recently of Colorado Springs, arrived, accommanded by nearly all. bride's brother, will be best man, but the others, who serve as ushers, are all from out of town-Horace Cochran of Maysville, Ky.; Guy Wiseman and Collins Sumrall of Danville, Ky., and Jim Ayres of Richmond. Va. The bride has chosen her sister-in-law. Mrs. Leone Gale, herself a bride of only a Mrs. Leone Gale, herself a bride of only a few months, to be matron of honor, with Ruth Spencer, Margaret Wikinson and Lida Robberson of Springfield, Mo., as remaining males. Pink and white tints will prevail and the church will be trimmed in an elaborate and effective manner. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duke Thompson gave a troller carty and sumer on Saturday night trolley party and supper on Saturday night for Miss Gaie; Miss Wilkinson will give a ten at the Kirkwood country home of the Wilkinsons to-day and Mr. and Mrs. Gale a dinner to-morrow night, preceded by a coaching party to Glen Echo, with the bride

The Jones-Rew party is chiefly remarkable for its collegiate air as to bridesmalds and its long list of ushers, most of whom come from other cities. Miss Katherine Jones, the bride, is a Smith graduate and has many friends among the college sts in various cities, choosing her maids, therefore, most impartially, one from each of four principal women's institutions of learning. Her honored maid is Miss Irwin of Albany, N. Y., lately of Bryn Mawr, while Miss Mabel Riddle of St. Louis, a Vassar girl; Miss Caroline Taylor of St Louis, Smith, Miss Anna Ramsey, St. Louis, also Smith, and Miss Weatherbee of Detroit, Wellesley, will lend their beauty to the bridal procession. The best man is a relative of the bridegroom, Mr. Theodore Irwin of New York. Mr. Rew, who is a Yale man, '89, has selected several college chums to be ushers, together with some of the bride's men friends in town. They are George Brown of Chicago, George McBenn of Chicago, David Williams of Evanston, J.

of Chicago, David Williams of Evanston, J.
D. Scovell of Buffalo, with Lewis Thomson, Louis Benecke, Carl Lawton and George Jones, all of St. Louis.
Miss Ethel Goddard, who is to marry
David Biggs at 6 o'clock at St. Feier's Episcopal Church, will have only one bridesmaid, Miss Johnston of Knoxville, Tenn. C. H. McMillan will be Mr. Biggs's best man, and Lewis Tone Edgar Roys.

Tenn. C. H. McMillan will be Mr. Biggs's best man, and Lewis Tune, Edgar Rand, Evans McCarty, Tyra Goddard and Stuart Allen of Cincinnati, the ushers.

Miss Bertha Stolle, whose marriage to Charles V. Brecht is to take place on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'dock, will have a house wedding, the ceremony being performed at the Stolle residence, No. 386 Delmar boulevard. There is to be no reception, merely a dinner to relatives and some few intimate friends, after which the bride and bridegroom will take their departure for a six weeks' trip to Denver and the Yellowstone Park. Miss Henrietta Stolle, who is the Park. Miss Henrietta Stolle, who is the only unmarried sister, is maid of henor, and Miss Flavia Lynch the bridesmaid. Frank Brecht is to serve his brother as best man, and another brother, Gus Brecht, will be the will be the groomsman.

Two Kansas City girls are to marry St. Louis men this month. Miss Lula Duncan and Waller Edwards have set June 18 for their marriage date, while Miss Frances Tabb and Doutor Hudson Talbott will marry late in the month, the exact date not yet being fixed. Both will be quiet weddings. Miss Duncan finished her school days at Mary Institute with the class of '25, and so often visits in St. Louis as to be regarded as a resident of the city. She is extremely pretty and very popular, and will come at once in a very pleasant circle of friends. Miss Tabb, whose home is at No. 228 Park avenue Kaness City will be 228 Park avenue, Kansas City, will be wel-comed with equal cordiality by Doctor Tal-bott's friends in town. They will live in the West End, after a very short wedding trip.

Miss Brwin Hayward and her flance, Mr. George Mowat Higinbotham, have not yet sent out their cards, but the date is arranged for June is Mrs. George Niedringhaus, Miss Hayward's sister, has given the bride her house for the wedding celebration, which is not to include many guests, as the Hayward connection is large enough to in. Hayward connection is large enough to insure a houseful alone. Only a very few per-sons who are not relatives will be bidden, BERTHA and they are to come from out of town.

Miss Hayward will have two bridesmalds, Miss Mande Niedringhaus, who has been her traveling companion and chum on sevcral European trips, being the maid of honou, and Miss Mildred Hopkins the other maid. A cousin of the bridgeroom's, Mr. Hig-inbotham of Philadelphia, will come on to officiate as best man; while the three groomsmen are George Steadman, Charles

Last of the month's nuplial events will be Last of the month's nuplial events will be that of Miss Florence Harris and John Herff, which is set for June 30, at 7 o'clock at St. John's Epissopal Church on the South Side, Miss Harris will be assisted by Miss Anne Ittner as maid of honor, and by Miss Cara Troriicht, Miss Carlotta Klemm and Miss Amy Herff, a cousin of the bridegoom's from San Antonio, Tex., as bridesmands, The best man is to be George Damon also a student at Any Arbor, where mon, also a student at Ann Arbor, where the bridegroom will finish his medical course just before his wedding day; and the ushers
